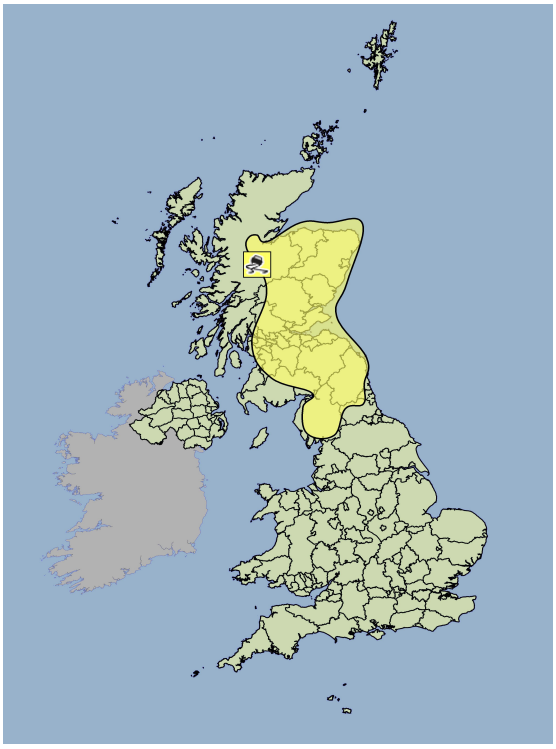
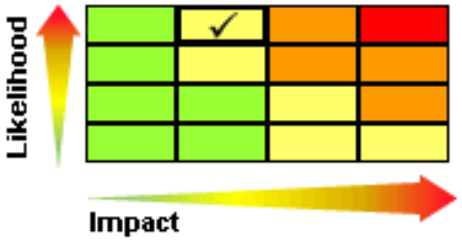
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A cold airmass covers northern Britain. Under clear skies rapidly falling temperatures early this evening will lead to the formation of icy patches on untreated surfaces, especially where rain, sleet or snow has fallen today or where the is seepage of water as a consequence of recent wet weather. Further outbreaks of snow, mainly over hills, are likely to return to parts of northern England and during the early hours of Saturday.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 18:00 on Fri, 08th Jan 2016 until 10:00 on Sat, 09th Jan 2016

Icy patches are expected on untreated surfaces from Friday evening onwards into early Saturday morning, particularly across eastern, southern and central Scotland. Please be aware that this could lead to some difficult driving conditions.
